This free program introduces students to careers in transportation and tech while earning three transferable college credits in Environmental Studies. Students come away understanding career opportunities in the transportation industry, such as airline pilots, bus drivers, train engineers, supply-chain managers, and many more. Students are also encouraged to pursue degrees that prepare them for transportation careers. MiSTA's partnerships with local industry leaders, like HNTB, California High-Speed Rail Authority, Mineta San Jose International Airport, VTA, and many others, make this program unique and valuable opportunity for those ready to make the most of it!
