About the Webinar

An estimated 49.6 million individuals are currently trapped by human trafficking, with women and girls making up about 71% of trafficking victims worldwide. Transportation hubs are key locations where trafficking takes place, and it is critical for the transportation industry to understand how traffickers take advantage of weaknesses in networks and who they target in order to stop trafficking and help survivors. Featured speakers will share insights into how traffickers take advantage of transportation networks and discuss potential points for tailored interventions. Join this important conversation to learn how to support survivors and implement anti-trafficking strategies that will make transportation safer for everyone.
